Shakespear

2024-08-20 - An unruly daughter

Stylistic devices

In line 194 - 201 („I frown upon him, yet he loves me still“ - „None, but your beauty: would that fault were mine“)

Parallelism, Repetition

Effect: They point out a Dilemma

„The more I hate, the more he follows me“

„The more I love, the more he hateth me“

Anaphora - Two sentences start with the same Word

Helena: „O that“, „O that“

„The more I hate, ...“, „The more I love, ...“

Stichomythia¹

„The more I love, [...] The more I hate, [...]“

Answer rhyme or same word (last word)

Effect on the reader

Stylistic device	Effect on the reader
Antithesis	illustrates difference between Helena and Hermia
Stichomythia	character dynamics, relationships that Hermia and Helena are involved in
Q.&A. / rhymes	Connection between Hermia and Helena and their feelings

¹ Fast-paced back-and-forth dialog

Analyze the means used to characterize

- Antithesis > Helena's despration (l. 199: „The more I love, the more he hateth me“)
- Hermia being portrayed as a „bitch“ (l. 194: „the more I love...“)
- Helena looking up to Hermia (l. 195, l. 197) but also being jealous of her

2024-08-29 - Stagestruck [beyond the text]

All other Acotre + quince

Task:

- How do they look
 - How do they act
 - How do they speak
- Alle „wuseln“ durcheinander
 - Kleidung zeigt starkt die „art“ an
 - angestellte
 - Köche
 - etc
 - They barely speak
 - simple dressed, the other stand out

2024-09-10 - Trouble in Faryland (II, 1, 60-176)

Task:

Read II. 81-117 of the scene. In her speech, Titania lsits changes in nature caused by her and Oberon's quarreling.

2024-09-17 - Fool for love (II, 1, 176-268)

McGuffin

is an object, device, or event that is necessary to the plot and the motivation of the characters, but insignificant, unimportant, or irrelevant in itself.

Example:

The money in the movie „Psycho“

Change in Nature	Main point(s) / consequences
Wind	produces contagious fogs and rain, which makes the rivers overflow and drown crops and harvest
Water	Leads to muddy ground without pathways on which people walk and dance
Moon	because of angry moon, it produces rain which leads to diseases
Seasons	markers are distorted, alternate more intensely

Correct the mistakes in the following sentences:

- Oberon is planning to send a forest animal to attack Titania.
 - No, he is going to „drop the lique of it in her eyes“ (178), so she is going to fall in love with the forest animal.
- Demetruis regrets tha he cannot love Helena in return
 - D. does not regret loving Helena in return.
- Helena is worried that Demetrius might harm her.
 - H. is not worried that D. might harm her.
- Oberon plans to smear Demetrus's eyes with love

A Duologue

Apply what is said in the video about shared language, questions and answers as well as names and statues to your reading of Demetrius' and Helena;s duologue (ll. 188-244)

Illustrate your findings with several examples.

Video notes:

- Two people on stage talking with each other
- Any interaction between two characters, what to look out for
 - shared lanugeage
 - ★ repetation
 - quenstions and answers
 - Status
 - ★ which characters is controlling the story

Examples:

Shared language

- Demetrius - „For I am sick when I do look on you.“; Helena: „And I am sick when I look not on you.“ (l. 211-212)
 - wdh. reversal

Questions and Answers

You vs thee/thou

You is a more formal form (de. ‚Sie‘), while thou (‚thee‘ is subject and ‚thou‘ is object) is more informal (de. "Du")

- D. asks some (rethorical) questions but H. does not always pick them up (ll. 189, 199-201).
- D. avoiding questions shows how little he's interested in / cares for H.

Status

- H.'s will to be hi ‚dog‘ (ll. 203, 210), she puts herself below D.,
- D. never uses her name, H. does use his name though (ll. 203, 239)
- H.'s speeches are much longer than D.'s.
- H. ignoring his commands causes her to climb the status ladder

Analysis

On page 46

Analyze the imagery used in Oberon's description of Titania's resting place and his plan of action.

Point out the effect which is created (ll. 248 - 258)

Analysis of Imagery

- Natural Imagery: Oberon describes Titania's resting place using rich and delicate natural imagery. Words like "wild thyme," "oxlips," "violet," and "musk-roses" create a harmless and beautiful surrounding.
- Sensoring: To describe the resting place Oberon not only uses Visual markers, but also other sensorign Impressions, like smell "sweet musk-roses." or taste.

In Act II, Scene 1 of A Midsummer Night's Dream, lines 248-258, Oberon delivers a speech that serves a dual purpose: it both describes Titania's resting place and outlines his intention to enchant her. In this speech Shakespeare heavily relies on using imagery, contrast to deepen the audience's understanding of characters and themes in the play. Oberon's language and imagery is also used to setting up a twist that shifts the tone from peaceful to manipulative and dark.

The speech begins with a detailed description of Titania's resting place in the woods. This speech evokes an image of a idyllic, safe, and almost magical location.

In order to achieve that, Oberon uses a lot of nature connected words and points of all the flowers surrounding the place like "violet", "woodbine", "musk-roses" or "eglantine". Flowers represent the joy of life and the beauty of nature. Given that they surround the place amplified the bond with nature.

Also, Oberon creates an image of safety and comfort while talking about Titian's resting place. For an example that Titiana is lulled in flowers (l. 254) within her over-canopied bank (l. 249-251). This supports the twist between the evil and the comforting place in his speech.

In contrast to the beautiful nature mentioned, Oberon still has an evil plan going on. For an instance he wants to use the magical flower to give Titania hateful and torturing imaginations (l. 258). This causes a contrast between how Oberon illustrates Titania's lovely and cute living space which makes her feel safe and secure while still continueing his evil plan to make her fall in love with a forest animal.

The Twist: starts with the snake¹

¹ Snakes are venomous, so evil

1. A snake that is throwing off her skin, is changing. This also stands for the twist and the change of tone in the text
2. The snake stands for Oberon, planing behind Titania's back

B. A nightmare come true	6	145 - 156
C. A little nightmusic	1	0 - 26
D. Single beds	3	35 - 65
E. A man transformed	5	84 - 144
F. A wicked spell	2	27 - 34

Pucks Speech 66 - 83

- Tetrameter
 - faster than Pentameter
- Poem like
 - Contrast between real and magic world
- It rhymes
- Trochee

Analysis

In Pucks speech, in Scene two of act two, from "A Midsummernight's dream" by Shakespeare, Pucks speaks about how he does not now who the "Athenian" is. By using a different meter, a poem structure and also utilizing a different metrical foot, Shakespeare, or Pucks, creates a contrast between the magical world, where Pucks lives, and the „real“ World.

Compare

Compare Titanisa's declaration of lova to Bottom with Helena's to Demetrius (II, 1, 195-244)

Titania	Helena
• very Positive • "filled" with love • Bottom first argues against the love (you should have little reason) • Titania ordes the other fairies to come after Bottom's wishes • seems healthy relationship	• feels quite toxic – desire Demetrius so badly that she's willing to subjugate herself completely – would sacrifice her own well-being • Demetrius hates Helena

For her oral exams about forced and arranged marriages, your English friend needs some real stories about arranged marriages. You have done some research and come across this article. Write and email to your friend outlining the information about Naeem's marriage and the role arranged marriages play in Pakistan.

Hi there Jiulijana,

I hope you're doing well and your family is too. I just read your message on your oral exam. Mine will be in about three months, so I still have some time.

In the meantime, I did some research for your topic, forced and arranged marriages, and I came across an interesting article by the German newspaper "Zeit" from 2018. The article is titled "Nur die Liebe fehlt", "You only need love" and discusses the story and thoughts of an Pakistani man whose parents and other family members had chosen his wife.

He doesn't argue against the arranged marriage, but he is also not always happy with it. The main reason for him are the beliefs of his family and especially his mother. She died some weeks after the wedding and the marriage was his last great fall to her.

His parents also started as an arranged marriage, but love developed over the years. Naeem cannot say the same about his marriage, but he would have done it again.

This article highlights that arranged marriages are common in Pakistan and are often seen as a way to ensure stability and shared values within a family. Decisions are typically made by parents, considering factors like religion, social status and family connections. While some individuals may have a say in the process, societal and familial pressures often influence choices.

I hope this information helps you prepare for your oral exam and provides valuable information. Let me know if you need more information or if there's anything else I can help you with.

Good luck with your preparations!

Take care

Play	Movie
Athenian times	1900s in Italy
Bottom expected to be clothed as "mechanic"	Kind of dressed up
	Missing characters that appear in the play
Character (Bottom's wife) not in the play > depicts Bottom's life outside the play
	Introduction of the fairies in the beginning stealing things from humans > shows how different their worlds are
	Bottom more "scentime" (even though he's a central character over all)
Heria is the most relatable and sympathetic
	Exaggerated in comparison
clearer deviation of worlds
